Foreword

The warm spring evening in June when the seniors silently and somewhat mournfully receive their diploma marks the end of three tedious, yet joy-filled years of study and social routine.

They leave Commerce's portals with the knowledge that they never will be able to return under their same status, a High School of Commerce student.

They leave behind them a life much different from what they will soon undertake — college, career, or marriage.

They leave behind them experiences they can never repeat, sorrows and joys that they will never forget.

They leave behind a memory, a name or a face that will be constantly associated by teachers and undergraduates with major or minor successes.

Most importantly, they leave behind a hope: a wish of good fortune for their successors, a wish that they will take advantage of the many offerings of the high School of Commerce — the opportunities that made every senior great in his own special way.

Faculty

Following the basic law of life, we've all had our "ups and downs" with faculty members — but, of course, many more of the former than of the latter.

We realize — at long last — that we have acquired knowledge from our teachers . . . Much more than this, we have learned to appreciate what teachers are made of: an ever-present desire to help someone find his way to success . . . Oh, its true . . . for what other reason are they teaching?

We'll remember always the times when we've had to work, perhaps too long and hard in our estimation . . .

We'll also recall, however, the times when we've joined with them in the halls, between and before classes . . . or when they joked with us — in class!

We dedicate Caduceus 1961 to tant principal, Mr. Philip A. Swee-

Mr. Philip A. Sweeney, former principal of Classical Junior High School and Forest Park Junior High School, entered the High School of Commerce in 1958 and will "graduate" with this year's senior class. He did his original practice teaching here at Commerce after attending Classical High School, American International College, and Harvard University.

May your years here at Commerce, Mr. Sweeney, be as happy and enjoyable as our years have been . . .

Mr. Sweeney, who is also "graduating" this year, is presented with his senior hat by Ronald Weston and Dianne Smith.

Mr. Raymond J. Montagna, our assistant principal, entered the High School of Commerce in 1953. He had attended American International College, Springfield College, and the University of Massachusetts. Before coming to Commerce, Mr. Montagna taught mathematics at other schools in the city. At present, his main tasks are administrative, in the disciplinary field.

To you also, Mr. Montagna, we hope your years at Commerce High will be pleasant and memorable.

GUIDANCE DIRECTORS

Mrs. Pottern

Mrs. Malone

Miss Rearden

Our office staff deserves credit for keeping the business side of the school running smoothly. The good advice and guidance our three counselors gave us willingly are most important for the future of all the students. This counseling will help our seniors to be happy in their life's work.

LUNCHROOM

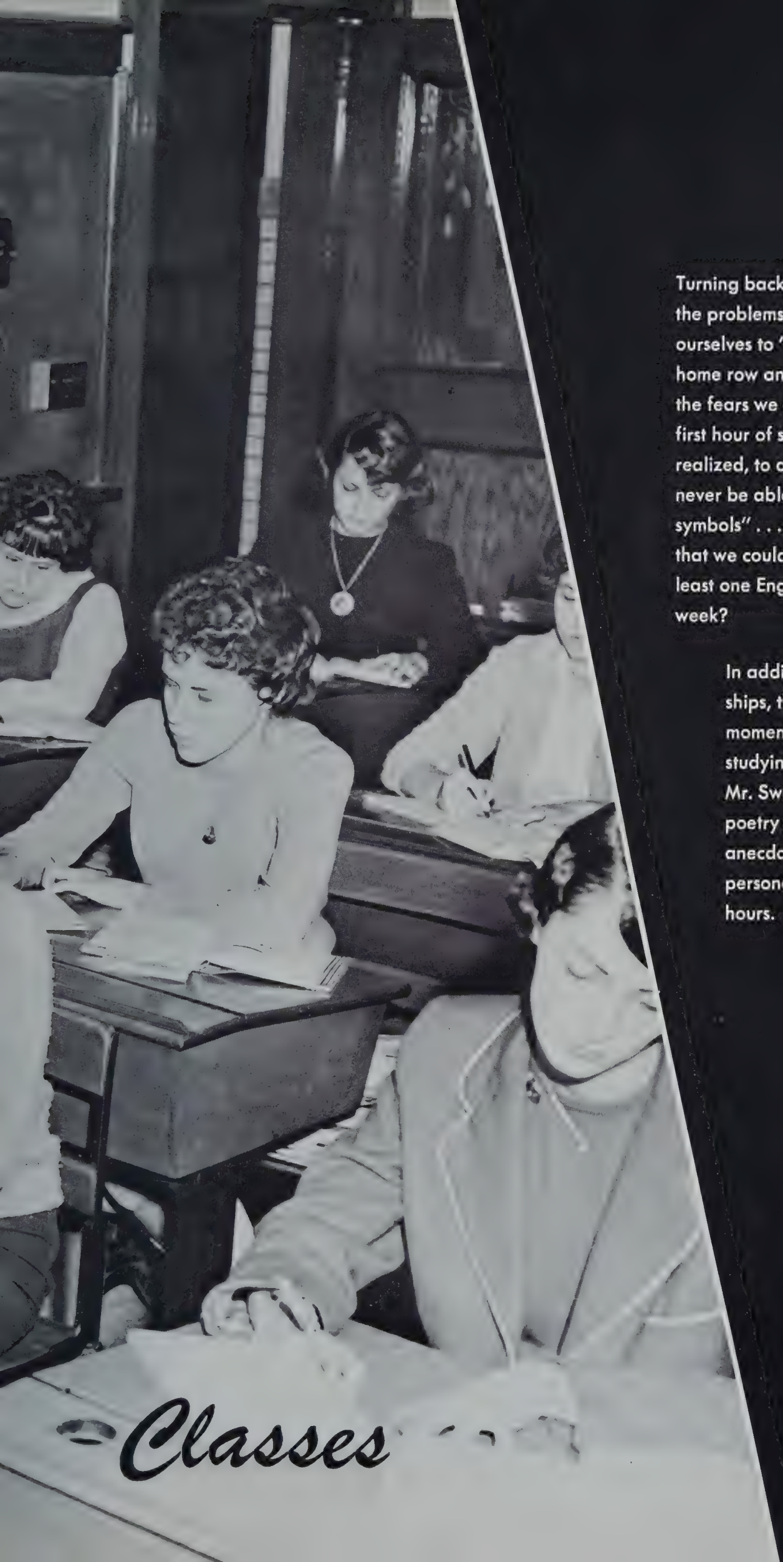
NURSE

The members of the lunchroom staff in the front row are Martha Seaver, Mary Kolburg, Marion Gendron, and Connie Grimaldi. Those in the back row are Christina Courtney, Rita Wright, Eleanor Lawler, and Mary Connolly. These pleasant women comprise an important team and contribute a great deal to keep our school running smoothly and efficiently.

Cheryl Beals is shown here with our school nurse, Mrs. Croken, who is attending to only one of the many duties she is called upon to do during the day.

Seated: Sarah Long, George Yorio, Margaret Fenton, and Bridget Tessier. Standing: William F. Lovett, Michael Scibelli, and Jerry Giordano. We could not do without this staff of efficient workers to keep our school neat and clean at all times.

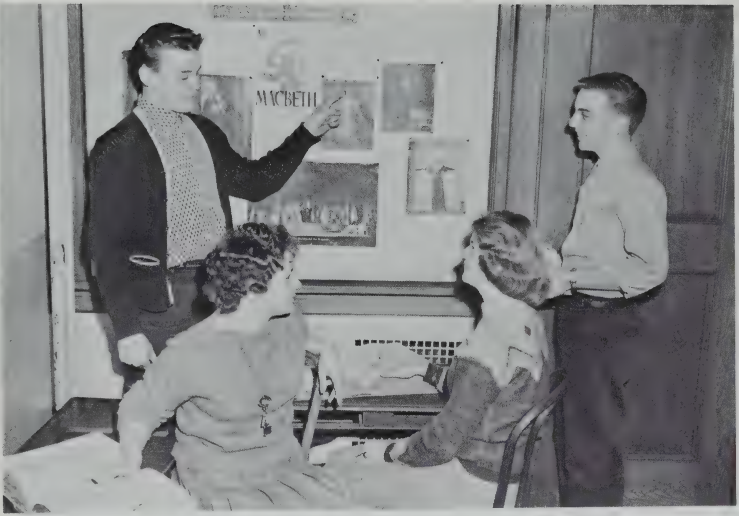


Classes

Turning back, Seniors, remember the problems we had in disciplining ourselves to "keep our hands on the home row and our eyes on our copy" . . . the fears we experienced during our first hour of shorthand when we realized, to our dismay: "Oh, I'll never be able to make all these symbols" . . . the horror of knowing that we could expect to write at least one English composition a week?

In addition to our daily hardships, though, we also had our moments of fun while assiduously studying. We'll never forget Mr. Sweeney's beautifully read poetry . . . Mr. Wiatrowski's amusing anecdotes . . . and other teachers' personalities during and after class hours.

College Curri-



In a lively senior English class, Jimmy Yvon, Pamela Crane, Carol Soutra, and Don Ugolini are discussing various interpretations of Macbeth after a study of that drama.

The College Preparatory Course at the High School of Commerce is unusual in that almost all the students can have thorough training in subjects other than those included in the regular college course. For instance, students may take clerical, bookkeeping, stenography, and stenography-bookkeeping. Best of all, every Commerce student will be a competent typist when he gets to college.

The college-bound student is required to study at least two years college English. In this course, students study the fundamentals of the English language: grammar, literature, and, above all, composition.

French, Spanish, and Latin are the variety of subjects that are offered by the language department.

Preparatory culum

Will it work or won't it? This question is on the minds of these interested chemists: Phyllis Maleski, Eleanor Komar, Margo Kolburg, Eloise Begg, and Jo-Ann Taylor.

The subjects included in the sciences are physics, chemistry, and biology. With the onset of a stepped-up scientific program, physics has developed into a subject of new demonstrations. The increasing need for new scientists has necessitated the addition of physics to the freshman program of the College Preparatory Course. To provide a basis in mathematics, geometry, Algebra II, and the elective, trigonometry, are taken.

In order to form a background for various types of employment, the High School of Commerce is outstanding in the assortment of courses that may be taken in order that the student will be capable of succeeding in both college and outside vocational employment.

Here is Jimmy Yvon again. This time he is teaching three amused students the fundamentals of trigonometry. Among the cheerful are Joan Ouimette, Don Ugolini, and Ginnie Slater.

Stenographic

Stenography has been offered as an academic subject since the school was first founded in 1916.

Today a stenographic education is an important key that opens the door to better job opportunities. Jobs in extremely pleasant surroundings are available to the girl with the ability to record a conversation as fast as it is spoken.

Aside from getting wonderful job opportunities, Stenography helps to develop character to prepare students for that job. Poise, courtesy, dependability, loyality, and a host of other good personality traits become second nature when the Stenography course is completed.

Stenography is designed to place the student in surroundings as much like those of an actual office as possible. Daily activities are carried out with the teacher "playing" the part of the boss, and the student "playing" the part of his secretary. Letters are dictated and forms are filled out. Students must hurry because the end of the period represents five o'clock; that's a secretary's quitting time with no overtime allowed.

Certificates are a student's goal in Stenography and are obtained by passing dictation and transcription tests. They represent a great achievement and a high honor.

France is an exciting place to Denise Brunet, Joan Brunette, and Martha Powers, who are studying the language of this country.

Bookkeeping: Patience, Accuracy, Perseverance

When a student leaves the High School of Commerce with a bookkeeping diploma, he has the ability to secure a fine position in the business world. The three years of training he has received give him the background he needs either to go to work or to continue on with his education at a business college.

To be eligible for a bookkeeping diploma, a student must succeed in passing two years of the subject. While taking these two years of bookkeeping, the student may also take advantage of the many other subjects of equal interest that are available to him, including many attractive electives.

Bookkeeping opens a complete world of marvelous positions in the business field. There are many jobs available now for people with the proper high school training.

Kathleen Fugiel, Deanna Goddard, Gloria Topoosian, Alice Wiecorek, Rosalie Misiaszek, and Judith Scott appear to enjoy their work as G. O. accountants in their Bookkeeping 2 class.

Attempting to solve the problems of the world, we find Karen Eldridge, Ann Braucher, Coral LaRose, and Judy Rivard are busy with discussion in their American History class.

The Clerical

Peeking in on a typical clerical bookkeeping class, one finds Theresa Saccamando, Helen Burgess, Barbara Drost, Diane Jones, and Gayle Piusz busy at work.

Students taking the clerical curriculum are required to have a full year of clerical practice and a full year of clerical bookkeeping or regular bookkeeping. These students are also required to have two years of typing, or one year of typing and one year of office practice, which includes machine calculation, duplicating, and filing. Three years of English and one year of American History are necessary, as in all other courses. After graduation, a student who has taken the clerical course may obtain a job as a clerk-typist, occasionally as a bookkeeper, and as a general office worker.

Distributive Education:

Merchandising Course Combines Academics with Job Training

Distributive Education consists of learning the fundamentals of the broad field of Merchandising. The students electing this course spend their mornings on academic, classroom work. They are required to take the usual prerequisites for a high school diploma, including civics and English. During one of their classroom periods, Miss McQuade instructs them on how to erect displays, plan out window designs, and, particularly, work with other people.

After an early lunch in advance of other students taking the customary full academic programs, they are off on the job to put their classroom theories into practice, to learn the tricks of the trade. In other words, each student spends his entire afternoon as an apprentice worker in a downtown retail establishment.

A hearty early lunch before departure for work. Enjoying it are, seated, Carol Scott, Alice Marek, Eleanor Settle, Marilyn Ainsworth, Donna Gregory, and Elizabeth Canedy. Looking on are Jane Elliot, Jocelyn Lynch, Marie Callahan, and Beryl Gosselin.

Eleanor Komar and Paul Beerwort are learning about voting procedures during their civics class. The 1960 National and State political campaigns attracted great student interest.

The General Curriculum

Phyllis Krahala and Judy Perkins are found attempting to reconstruct the abdominal cavity of a former student in their freshman biology class.

At the completion of the general course at Commerce, the student is capable, without having specialized, of securing a job as a file clerk or typical office assistant. In addition to the usual English, social studies, and science, he will have completed a year's work in at least several such subjects as bookkeeping, stenography, clerical practice, and office practice.

While attending Commerce, also, he will have had at least two years of typing. With the latter experience, it will be fairly easy to adjust to most normal office routines. Our school is the only one in the immediate area that offers a general curriculum of this nature.

Hoping to achieve a new goal in speed and accuracy are Pat Gagner, Alfred Flint, Mary Ellen Greene, Kathleen Herlihy, Gerald Bewsee, Everett Cooley, Donna Marsh, Enes Parent, and Jim Tibbetts, busy at their typewriters in a Typewriting II class.

Seniors

The magic of an evening never to be forgotten — that of the Senior Prom . . . The beauty of the flowing, pastel gowns . . . The debonaire-like charm of the handsomely dressed young men . . .

The somber atmosphere of an evening also never to be forgotten — that of the 1961 Graduation Exercises . . . The dignity of the stately maroon and white robes . . .

Perhaps these are the two fondest memories of any senior, world around. They are, of course, not the only occurrences that will be remembered. As the High School of Commerce's Class of 1961 knows, there are ever so many!

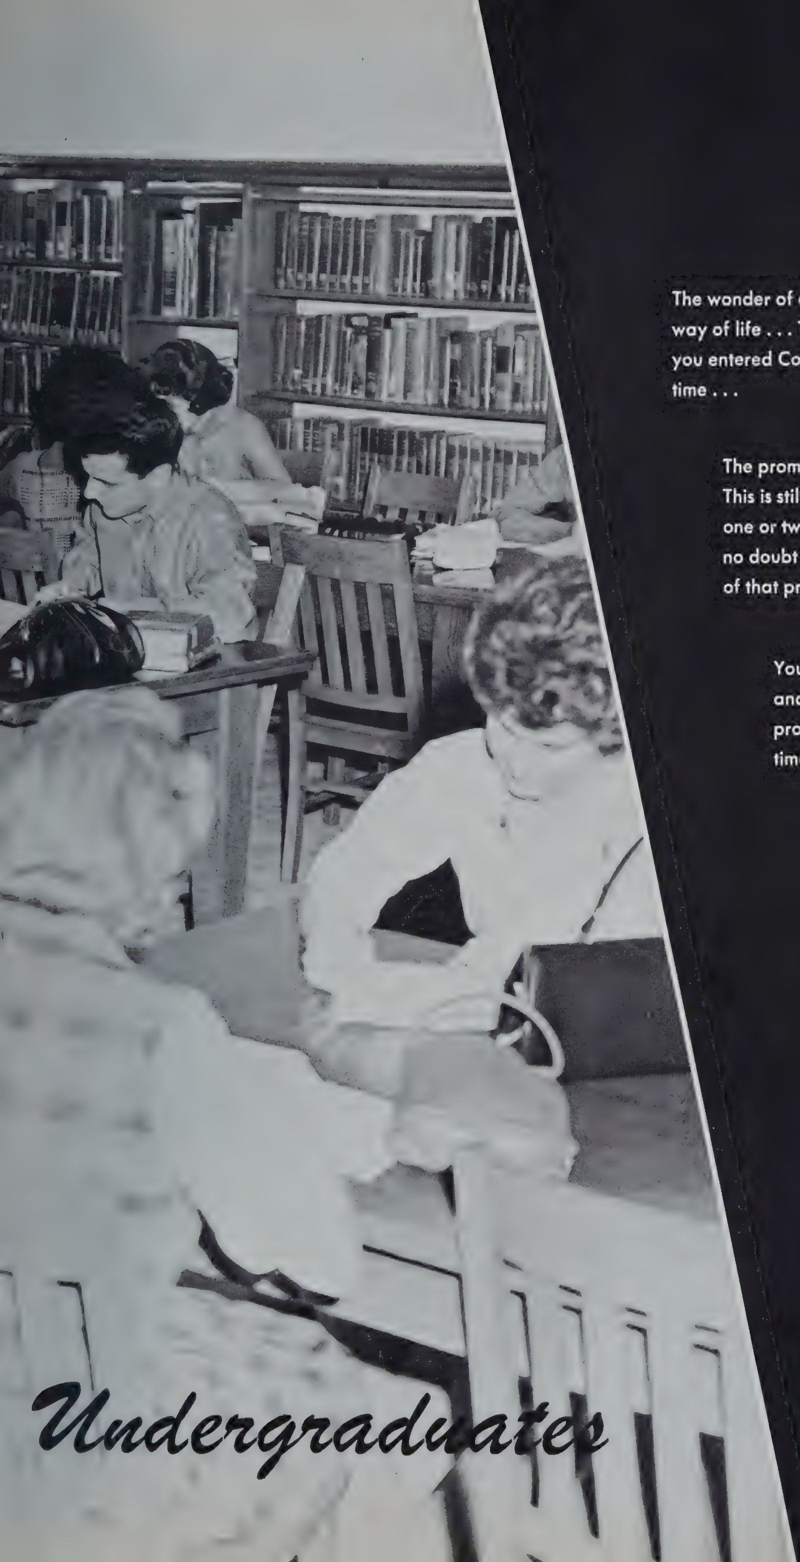
Undergraduates



The wonder of a new start, a new way of life . . . This was yours when you entered Commerce for the first time . . .

The promise of a future . . . This is still yours. In that one or two years here, you will no doubt find the fulfillment of that promise . . .

You have the opportunities and the abilities . . . you'll proceed successfully . . . with time on your side.

The senior class officers who helped us fare through the trials and tribulations of an explosive senior year are Deanna Goddard, secretary; Edward Bentley, president; and Carol Soutra, vice-president.

Eileen Lawler, Judith C. Carlson, Annmarie Archambault, Alice Marek, Beverly Hyland, Deanne Brochu, Patricia Ducharme, Martha Monroe, Judith A. Sullivan, Bernice Powers, Barbara Labossier, Rosalie Misiaszek, Jane Malecki, and Jan Hoffman compose our Senior Executive Board which did so much in the way of aiding the graduation plans of this year's senior class.

"Chivalry — so early in the morning?"

"Ugh! I should be a plow."

In case any overly-ambitious teachers at the High School of Commerce think that Commerce students have ample time on their hands to do extra assignments, please read further. We had our Caduceus photographer, Mr. Jones, follow one particularly busy and popular senior girl, Joanie Ouimette, for a day. Here is what we found to be true of one typical, busy school day.

"Honestly, I completely forgot about that library book, Ginnie. You know I wouldn't intentionally keep it."

"All right, all right, you kids know I'm trying to take the notes of this Student Council meeting — slow down a little!"

HIGH SCHOOL of COMMERCE
DRIVER EDUCATION CAR

"But golly, Mr. Troy, it was only a little stop sign — hardly noticeable at all!"

"Oh no, wait'll Mr. Wilder sees what I've done now!"

A Typical Day in the Life of a Senior

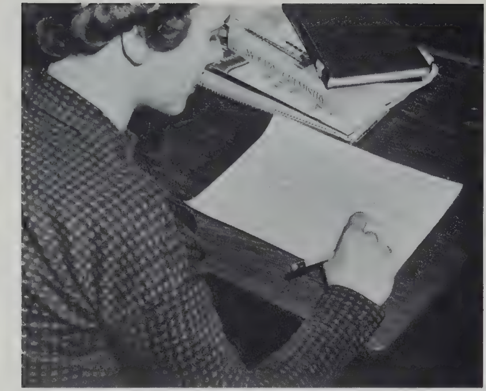
"How'd you do on that lab test in Chemistry today? I think I got the fourth one wrong."



"When's the bell gonna ring."

"Wish our study halls were this comfortable."

"I think I'm finally getting used to this machine."

"Oh, come on now, how'd that ever happen?"

"My after-school job.
Another day, another dollar."

"I'd better hurry up, George will be here pretty quick!"

(By the radiant smile on Joanie's face, you can guess who this young man is.)

"Burning the midnight oil again!"

And so a typical day in the life of a senior comes to a close. It was a full and exciting day, as are all the other days in a senior's year — never boring and always full of life. These are the days we will remember — and wonder how we ever got through — when we are working hard in an office or strolling the halls of the college of our dreams.

"Grin and bear it," June Laskey and Lillian Gerow seem to be saying to Freshman Michael Slattery as they prepare him for the hectic day ahead.

Freshie

"Just the thought of going to school on Freshie Day had me worried. What a day it turned out to be!

"While I was walking to my homeroom, two seniors who were supposed to be my friends pulled me by the hand and led me into the girls' room. Once in there, they smeared lipstick all over my face, made me put my father's shirt on backwards, and gave me a sign stating my name and homeroom. I still didn't look too bad, but when they started putting my hair in pony tails all over my head, that was it. Now, I thought my troubles were over, but then when assembly time came I found they had just started.

Life is just

"The seniors called a great many freshmen to the stage to do various things. By various things, I mean singing the Commerce School Song, being sent out into the audience on a scavenger hunt and trying to eat blueberry pie — no hands.

"Finally the assembly ended, but soon came lunch. Trying to eat lunch on Freshie Day was like trying to squeeze toothpaste back into its tube. Not only did we have to eat our lunch standing up and drink our milk with cut straws, but also we had to do such things as propose to teachers and senior boys, play children's games, and sit on boys' laps, wiggle their ears, and say 'I love you.'

"All in all, we freshmen had fun, and so did the seniors. I don't think any other school shows more school spirit than the High School of Commerce on Freshie Day."

"Oh no! Here come those seniors again!" Freshman Sharon Simmons appears to be screaming because she knows that she is doomed for a senior prank.

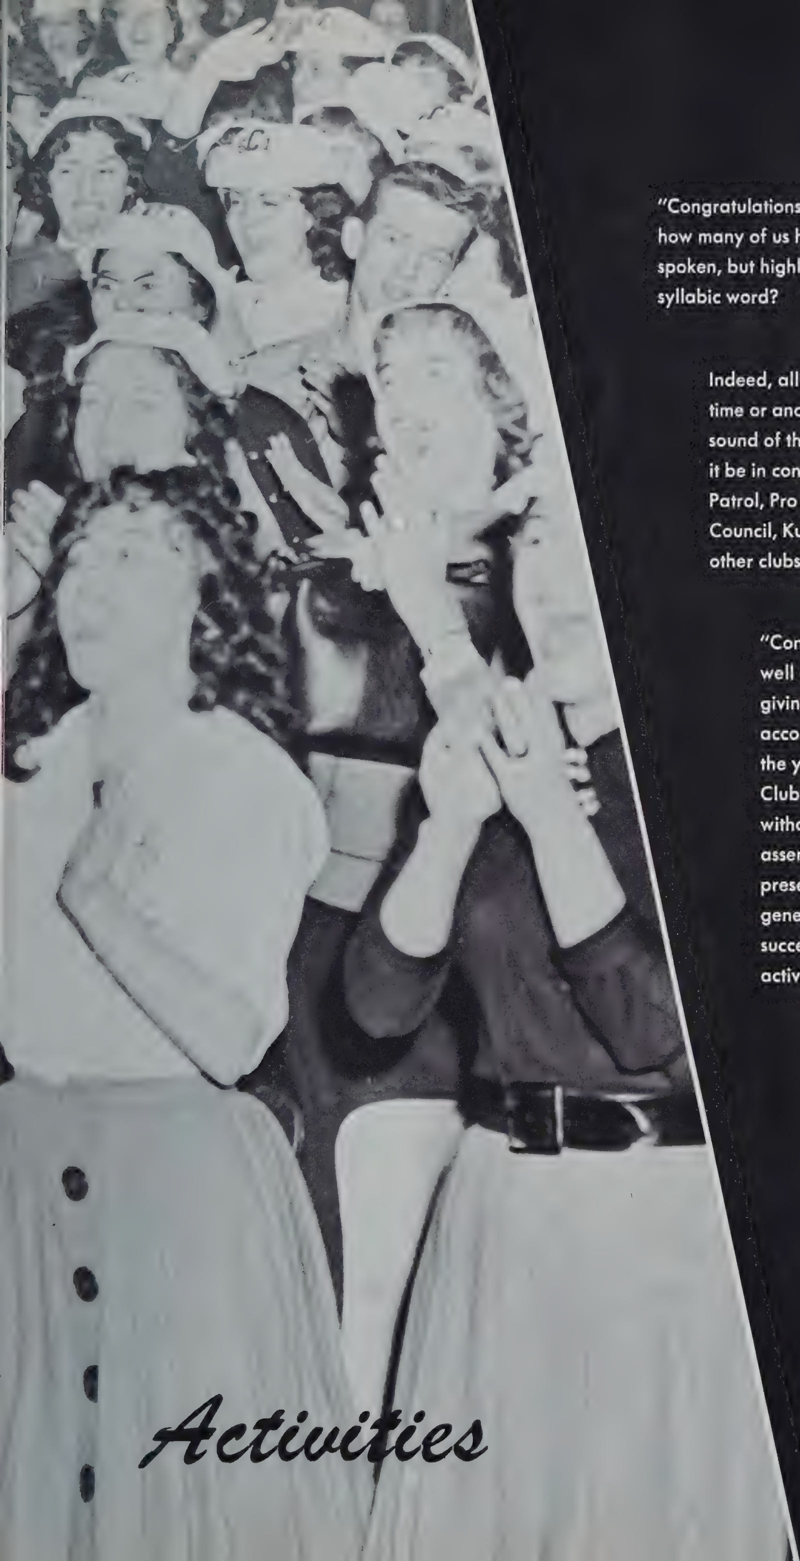
Activities



"Congratulations," they said. Oh, how many of us have heard this oft-spoken, but highly meaningful polysyllabic word?

Indeed, all of us have at one time or another heard the magic sound of this one word, whether it be in connection with "making" Patrol, Pro Merito, Student Council, Kumtux, or any of the other clubs at Commerce.

"Congratulations on a job well done," they also said, giving praises for your accomplishments throughout the year . . . on how the Drama Club could never have survived without your help . . . on how the assembly was improved by your presence upon the stage . . . in general, on how well you succeeded in your extracurricular activities.

CADUCEUS

Members of the Caduceus Business Staff include: Standing: Donald Ugolini, Nancy Dziura, Pat Marszalek, Karen Kenyon, Diana Richards, Carolyn Alper, Theresa Sheffer, Linda Morgan, Frances Sugerman, Judy Fitzpatrick, Joan Flathers, Enid Grushka, Judy Rivest, Marilyn Martone, Judy Carlson, Mr. Alminas, adviser. Seated: James Russell, Bonnie Longe, Barbara Labossier, Ronald Weston, Judith Sullivan, Bob Cabiosos, Mary Smith, Carol Carpenali, and Carmela Santos.

The membership of this year's Caduceus staff was larger than ever before. The associate editors and photography staff composed all the necessary material published in the yearbook, while the business staff managed the financial matters. Everyone found a great deal of satisfaction in working as a team to meet the deadline and publish another Caduceus yearbook.

Every month the Commerce staff publishes an issue of news-worthy occurrences. Under the direction of Miss Helen Connell, the staff reports the latest sports news, the current fashions, and the monthly calendar. Other features the Commerce newspaper includes are an article on the student of the month and excellent editorials.

General

"Not a Minute to Lose" could easily be the motto of the hard-working General Organization members. If it isn't collecting money for a dance, Capers tickets, or the yearbook, it is something else. The G.O. records would not be in order if all the members did not give all their time and endless effort to this never-ending job. We all join in saying, "congratulations" to Miss Midura and her wonder-workers.

Organization

The General Organization agents and alternates also deserve a tremendous amount of credit for collecting the money for the various activities. If you have been accustomed to seeing a long line coming from room 113, it's the G.O. agents and auditors who are busy at work. The only praise that these students receive is the satisfaction that they have contributed something to our school, and that is enough for them.

Drama Club

Commerce

The maroon, velveteen curtains parted briskly and disclosed a park bench surrounded by trees in bloom. Thus, another edition of the Commerce Capers commenced. There were four acts this year, an act for each season.

The first, Spring, contained many enjoyable performances: singing, dancing, and instrumentals, to name just a few.

Winter, the final section, was also set in a park. But this time the trees were leafless and the benches were covered with snow. The Girls' Glee Club sang many Christmas favorites as well as other winter songs.

At a final curtain call, the entire cast came on stage and vocalized the traditional "Auld Lang Syne." The curtains were then drawn triumphantly.

Capers

"Girl Hobos! What will they think of next?" asks Ed Bentley as he ponders his life as a "happy individualist."

Junior Red Cross

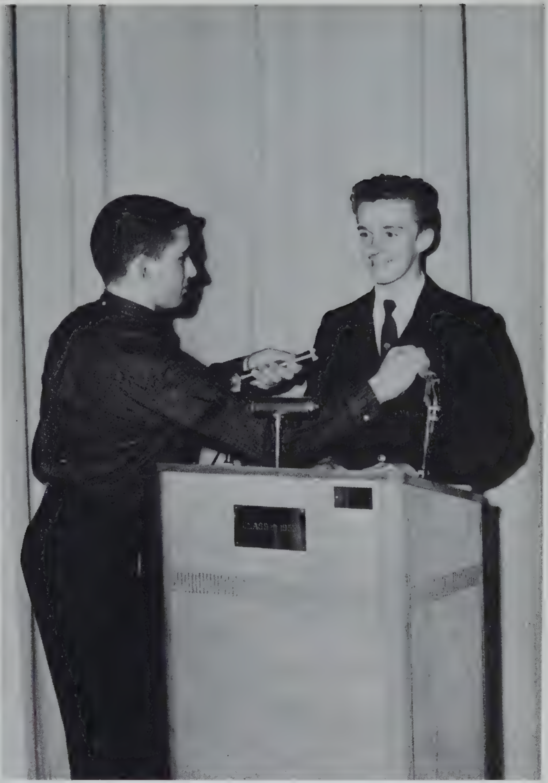
Commerce was the proud host of the Inter-High School Council of the American Junior Red Cross in December, 1960. The purpose of this annual meeting was to formulate and carry out plans for the benefit of the community. Seated at the table are the inter-high school officers. They are: Marilyn Hitchcock, Edward Moulton, and John Davis. Among the Commerce representatives are: Dottie Duren, Barbara Schroeder, Carol Carpenali, and Wilberine Bumgardner. The remaining group represents high schools throughout the area. They are: Candy Langone, Minnechaug; Mary Ann Consolini, Cathedral; Alice Potter, West Springfield; Susan Mensch, Agawam; Martha Keyes, Ursuline Academy; Pat Crutchfield, Technical; Virginia Evans, Classical; Mary Kein, Longmeadow; Virginia Martin, Trade; and Andy Scharmer, East Longmeadow.

Volunteer Typists

Many Commerce students volunteer services as typists, to the Tuberculosis Association each year. Displaying TB seals are two volunteers, Virginia Slater and Danuta Basiak.

Stage Crew

The stage crew, in charge of props, lighting, and the microphones, voluntarily assists at such functions as school assemblies, "Capers," and the Music Festival. Here Arthur Savage and Michael Sambrook adjust the microphones before an assembly.



The audio-visual aids, Mark Curto, Lynn Hollings, Patricia Langevin, and Richard Moore, under the supervision of Mr. Harold Jones, assist in running films for various classes throughout the year.

Sports

Certainly, the school year of 1960 and 1961 will not be remembered as a year of losing teams.

Will anyone forget the excitement of winning basketball game after basketball game, each one with better playing and sportsmanship than that which preceded it? Our boys deserve much credit, not only for their participation in basketball, but in soccer, bowling, football, and baseball.

1960 - 1961 will also be remembered as a girls' year for excellent athletic accomplishments. Needless to say, the girls' bowling team will long be remembered as well as the other frequently-winning and only occasionally-losing teams.

High in Spirit, Varsity Nine Never Gave Up

The High School of Commerce varsity, the inexperienced team of the city, finished the baseball season with a 4-12 record. Although four wins appear to be a small margin compared to the losses, the Raiders scored 91 runs. Dalton, Trade (twice), and Chicopee Voc. were among the Raiders victories. The Raiders had a green team with five freshmen, five juniors, and two seniors. Dick Pietrucci and Gerry Smith shared the catching spot. A little troubled by pitching, the Raiders had Don Allen and Bob Vernadakis for starters. Walt Cocchi, one of the long ball hitters, held honors in home runs with a total of three.

A great deal of credit goes to the coaches, Mr. Wright and Mr. Smith. Both coaches agreed that the past season showed great sportsmanship and the ability to learn to play baseball.

The 1960 football season was not as good as was expected. Although the Raiders always fought a hard game, they never seemed to pull through with the big play. One reason for this was a number of injuries that seemed to plague the Raiders all year long. But injuries didn't stop them from winning two games and tying one with Palmer.

One of the Raiders' standouts was Alvin Parker, who can do just about everything. Ham Wray, along with Alvin Parker, was selected by a noted local sports announcer for the All-Star television team. The backfield would be lost without a line, and the Raiders were gifted this year with rugged Joel Cardano and speedy Jim Grandison.

A fine juggling job by Coach Troy brought about two fine quarterbacks, Dan Grealis and Bob Donahue. The Raiders are hoping for a new start next season.

Raider Booters Struggle, Survive Season

The past soccer season was as tough a struggle as any team would want to encounter. The Raider booters won one, tied two, and lost ten. Although the losses outnumbered the wins, the margin of loss was usually kept very low.

Some of the soccer standouts were "Big" Charlie Eldredge, who was named to the All-City Soccer Team, and Don Allen, part-time goalie, who received an honorable mention. It takes four to make both a quartet and a nucleus for a soccer team; the other two were Walt Cocchi and Phil Frink, who hustled the ball around all season.

Raiders Win

A coach is handicapped unless he has a good team to work with and coach John Troy certainly did this year! He had shooters like Reuben Green and Russ Orr, who both have splendid jump shots; hustlers like Bobby Ryan, the backcourt general; and Willie Fuller, just about the best there is. Of course we can't forget Art Granfield, who played exceptional ball all through the season, despite the handicap of a cast on his right forearm; also the speed of Bob Donahue, who is probably one of the best sixth men in the city. With a team like that anything can happen, and it did. The Raiders won two decisive upsets this year. One was a thriller over the Longmeadow Lancers, 66-64. The Raiders weren't satisfied with just one upet; they had to win another, and this they did by defeating Technical by a score of 51-41. In both these games the Raiders hustled and played at their very best to obtain probably the two major upsets in Western Massachusetts. The Raiders finished with an over-all record of 14 wins and 3 losses, losing only one game in the city.

City Championship

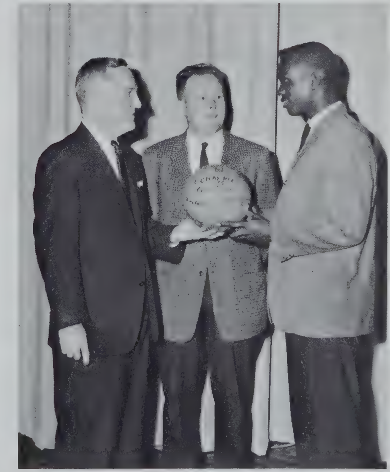
Raiders Win City Title

The Crimson five had to beat Cathedral to capture the city crown. The Raiders fought long and hard to beat the Panthers 55-46, giving Coach John Troy and the High School of Commerce its second city title in three years.

Western Mass. Tournament

"You can't win them all," was overheard in the Commerce locker room after they bowed to Worcester South 48-41. They just didn't have it that night at the Field House. The usually hot third period couldn't be found. No one doubts that South was a tough team, but that didn't alter the Raiders' hustle and spirit as they fought right up until the last second. Tall man Art Granfield played exceptional ball, coming through with nine points.

There is always next time, and Coach Troy and the Raiders are looking forward to an equally strong team next year. Three of the starting five players will be back next year along with up-and-comers: Alvin Miller, Kenner Jordan, Hamilton Wray.



Reuben Green, three-year veteran and captain of the varsity, receives the '60-'61 city championship game ball from Principal Philip A. Sweeney. Coach John Troy looks on.

Attract Greater Interest

During the course of the school year, many boys go out for sports that do not receive the same recognition as the major sports such as basketball or football.

Of these, bowling is possibly the most important. For the first time in at least seven season, Commerce produced a winning team. We won the first round competition, led by the consistently good play of Norman Roy, the team's anchor man, and flashes of brilliance at key moments from freshmen Michael Slattery and Brian Pannier. The play-off match with Trade was bitterly contested, but despite a brilliant 319 triple by Rich Pietrucci, we lost. The championship will be much closer to our grasp next year because of our strong veteran squad.

Our J.V. basketball team did as well as what was expected of them. They finished the season with a total of five wins and nine losses. We defeated Trade and Classical twice each. The fine work of Mr. Smith helped the team a great deal, and with his guidance next year, we are sure the J.V. basketball team will do much better.

A new sport at the High School of Commerce is wrestling. As a new sport, however, we started off well, considering that one of the boys, Joe Pryor, made the All-City Wrestling Team. With the fine efforts of Mr. Meacham, coach for the wrestling team, better results are expected next year.

One of the newest spring sports around the High School of Commerce is golf. Although the participation is not as great as what was expected, the Raiders turned out some fine golfers. One of the outstanding members of the team is Peter George. His average for the season was in the low eighties. Two of last year's golfers will be back to help start off this year's team.

Although the tennis team did not consist of too many members, the whole idea of the team was to experiment with hopes of enlarging the team and trying to develop inter-school competition. The two members of the team, John Alden and John Pine, never played in any competition. Their entire schedule consisted of practice games, but we hope that soon Commerce will be producing a fine tennis team.

Our cheerleaders find it impossible to conserve all their energies for time-outs and half time. An exciting moment during the Classical game catches them noisily absorbed.

Besides being represented by our cheerleaders during the football season, Commerce was also encouraged by the drill team, the band, the school mascot, and by many enthusiastic fans. This photo shows the scene at Trade Field during the annual football game with Classical.

Girls' Basketball, Bowling, Cheerleading Prove popular

"Go, Raiders, Go!" Leading the cheers of the High School of Commerce at the sporting events and rallies this year were the hard-working group of girls known to us as our cheerleaders. The spirit of our cheerleaders is dampened neither by defeat nor unfavorable weather. Their enthusiasm can be seen on the football field and on the basketball court. Dressed in bright red and white uniforms, these girls give up much of their time and energy to the school. Every year in April, tryouts are held to chose new cheerleaders for the coming year. Captain of our cheerleading squad this year was Kathy Collings.

OUR THANKS

We strongly feel that for this year's Caduceus we have had more cooperation and volunteering than ever.

Senior Eileen Lawler is an exceptional example. Throughout the year, Eileen has given up much of her valuable time (she carried six majors) in photographing the junior candids.

Faculty member Miss Ruth Marsden and senior James Yvon also have given much of themselves in providing various art work.

Also, we'd like to give our extra "Thanks" to the Caduceus Business Staff who helped finance this year's enterprise by obtaining approximately three times as much advertising revenue as in the past.

Of exceptional quality and quantity, too, was the work of the "Photography Department:" We thank Miss Regina Henderson for her vigorous work in keeping Loring appointments and photos in order . . . Miss Alberta McCleary and her associates, Patricia Gebo and Carolyn Ugolini, for doing the same with the action and group pictures we ordered . . . and, of course, Photographer Mr. Harold Jones for keeping everyone busy with his "picturesque masterpieces."

Needless to say, this Caduceus would not have existed had it not been for the ambitious work of all these people.

The Editors

OUR "PUBLICITY AGENTS"

COMMERCE in the NEWS

"Spotlight on Youth" reporters, Barbara Goff and Dianne Smith.

We, the Class of '61, of the High School of Commerce, City of Springfield, State of Massachusetts, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do hereby make, publish, and declare this our last Will and Testament.

To Mr. McKay, we leave a pair of elevated shoes.

Reuben Green leaves his Ipana smile to Kenner Jordan.

Homeroom 113 leaves Miss Midura a stopwatch and a map so that she can find the correct "time and place for everything."

Gerry Smith and Linda Carlson leave the path which they wore down in the halls to the couple who wishes to do a lot of walking next year.

To all English teachers (especially Miss Rankin) we leave a copy of the book, How to Rede and Spel Gud.

To Mr. Montagna, we leave a years' supply of pen refills so he won't run out of ink while writing detention passes.

To Mr. Alleva, we leave a new technique and lots of luck.

To Mr. Landry, we leave a smile.

To Mr. Nickerson, we leave a pair of earplugs. (Guess why!)

We leave a new hat for Mr. Wiatrowski to wear at next year's basketball games.

To Mr. Jones, we leave his famous last words: "Equal, reduce, and move over."

Jim Grandison leaves a bottle of pep-up pills to any junior who wants to stay awake in Mr. McKay's class next year.

Although our class as a whole can leave nothing to Mr. Grant, the man who has everything, Donna Marsh and Frannie Sugarman would like to leave their broken record from Capers and the memories which added maturity to them and grey hairs to him.

We seniors leave our teachers peace.

To Mr. Sweeney, we, the Class of '61, leave a senior hat. Also, Carol Murphy, Gerry Gour and Andrea Rufenaucht leave him more room at the basketball games.

Bob Yvon and Bob Vernadakis leave to Mr. Troy the fight, desire, and ambition that he has been trying to persuade them to exert over the past three years.

Sue French, Richie Jackson, Al Parker, Reuben Green, Judy Shaker, Judy Paul, Judy Sullivan, Maureen Lockerby leave Mr. Troy a new set of nerves for next year's driving classes.

To Mr. Allen, his homeroom and first, fifth, and seventh period English classes leave a new jokebook (for the sake of the well-being of next year's classes).

Pat Ryba leaves her size 10 shoes to Miss Zajchowski.

In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names and set our seal to this Will, consisting of one page, this thirteenth day of June in the year One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-One.

The Class of 1961

The foregoing instrument was, at the date thereof, subscribed, sealed, and declared by the said Class of 1961, the testator, as and for their Last Will and Testament in the presence of us, who at their request, in their presence and in the presence of each other, have hereunto subscribed our names as attesting witnesses.
